Sentinel Habit	Incorporates the patient's experience and context into problem identification and management across all domains of care	Final Decision
		Competence Demonstrated YES	Competence Demonstrated NO
Definition: Candidates who demonstrate competence in this sentinel habit explore both the disease and the patient's personal experience of illness (e.g. FIFE). They show active interests in their patients and over time are able to describe important details of their lives. They work to enhance the relationship and gather day to day contextual information which will guide them in making appropriate decisions with their patients. They work with their patients to come to agreement on the problems, the priorities, the goals and the approach to management. They regularly address prevention and health promotion in clinical encounters. They manage time and resources effectively.

Candidate: _____ Assessor: _____ Date: _____

Sentinel Habit	Demonstrates respect and/or responsibility across all domains of care	Final Decision
		Competence Demonstrated YES	Competence Demonstrated NO
Definition: Candidates who demonstrate competence in this sentinel habit act in a professional manner at all times with patients, staff, colleagues and others. “Professionalism” means reliability, trustworthiness, respect and responsibility to patients, colleagues, themselves, to the profession and to the community at large. It deals with honesty, ethical issues, lifelong learning and the maintenance of quality of care. Important attitudinal aspects such as caring and compassion fall under professionalism. It includes knowing and expanding ones limits of competence, dealing with uncertainty in a clinically appropriate and patient-centered manner and the ability to evoke confidence without arrogance. Professionalism implies attention to boundaries, commitment to patient well-being, respect for patients’ culture and values and willingness to assess one’s own performance. It includes a commitment to reflective practice, evidence-based medicine and learning from colleagues and patients as well as a commitment to personal health and seeking a balance between personal life and professional responsibilities. The ability to behave professionally and collegially in difficult situations is essential. Professionalism means doing the right thing even when no-one else may know.
